With regard to the personal qualities and habits of the Chinese, Mr. Brooks has discovered they possess more virtues than most people who are well acquainted with them for obsir bire. would be disposed to admit. It is true, as he alleges, that they are not drunken, as a rule and it is also true that many among them are far removed from stinginess. But when he passes on to remark that "there are no people on earth so clean personally as Chinamen." it is impossible not to join issue with bim there. The Chinese are not a clean people, labour, for misconduct as Police constables: They are notoriously not addicted to washing, and their economy of water in their ablutions is something remarkable. Even the superior classes among them are too often content with making the outside presentable, and to upper garment. There are exceptions, it true, but they only prove the rule. It

The RECERTARY read the notice convening the meeting, and the minutes of the last extraordinary meeting held on the 1st of June, 1874. The CHAIRMAN said that in pursuance of the esolution passed at the extraordinary meeting in June, 1874, they had been engaged from that time to this in winding up the affairs of the company. A statement of accounts was on the table for inspection, and be would simplify them analyse the accounts, and pointed out that the loss on the sale of the steamer Azantha, which was in Japan, was Tis. 2,383.72, and that the loss on goals and stores &c., was Tis. 2.588.8.

which was mainly on the coal, which was of a very poor quality. The next item he referred to was the account with Messra. Glover. Dow and Company, and with that firm they had austained a loss of Tla. 3.593.88, and by bnd debte. difference of exchange, &c., they bad lest Tia. 810.37. The ceneral expenses imonated to Tla. 5.334.36, showing an outgoing total of Tis. 14.710,22. On the profit side of the accounts, by salvage they had realised. Tis. 19.070.29; and by interest, less difference on the Rong's account. The. 8.120.33, making a total of profits of Tis. 22.19.68. Deducting the loss of lia 14.716.22, there was a difference of Tie. .674.48. Take this from the amount at debit on the 31st Docember 1873, of Tla. 53.567.53 there was a total less of capital of Tla. 46,093.07 The amount of capital on the 31st of December. 1873, was Tis, 190,600; and the less as new shown eing Tis. 144,506.93. To be deducted from this was Tla. 141,997.00, repaid to shareholders ot the rate of Tla. 745 per abave, and thus a balanco was left to be divided of Tis. 2.509.93. There was capital obstanding to the amount of Tls. 1,162, and dividends not claimed amounting to Tls. 472.50, making a total amount of cash in the bands of the Bankers of Tie. 4.144.43. That was the cash they bad now to deal with, and they proposed to divide the Tis. 2.509.93 between the abareholders at the rate of one tael three mace and two candercons per share, and it was for the meeting to decide what should be done with the 470 odd taels of unclaimed dividends. He then read some correspondence relating to a claim of $1,200 from a firm at Ne v York for plans which had been supplied for steamers, and expressed an opinion, as there was some misunderstanding in relation to it, that it would be better for the shareholders to order the payment of the claim, which would not amount to more than fifty cents per share, rather than allow it to retard the closing of tho Company: Next come the question as to the desirability of keeping the present machinery in operation, - the Trustees, Directors, Auditors, and so on. UNTLAND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION: Avolo Chinese Dictionary, published the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

FOR comprehensiveness and practical service in the Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous ob-jectammachinery, photography, telegraphy, and of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are PRESERVES, CURRY POWDER and here given in extenso. Each and every word is PASTE, SYRUPS, MARMALADE, BAUCHE fully llustrated and explained, farming ever do., do. Apply to oises for atudents of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunmations are 1621 Hongdong, 10th October, 1876 given the accepts being carefully marked on FOR SALE. the but principle hitherto attained. The typemake he Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vest previously attained and dispensing with those vent margins and ynoant spaces which bave heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To liustrate the wast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Jamers Vocabulary contains about 18,000 Uhipens characters, and Medburst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000 whilst this work contains more than 80,000 English words, and apwards of 600,000 Chinese obaracters. Again, despite all the grammers and other elementary works as yet published the atudent of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-cations and equivalents of different words which many as any other Dictionary hitherto pubthe work is so complete, that A reference. to is pages enables a person who understanta Emglish to communicate effectively with putives who understand nothing but Chiindipensable to all Europeans residing in Chim, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.

A letter from Rome to the New York THE DEATH OF THE BLACK PRINCE Evening Post has the following interesting For the moment the people's cause bar Evening Post has the interesting an education in Italy

The Black Prince had been afflicted for five the accurate description made of them by Bayard Taylor when they were first captured, three years ago. The English Geographical Society then asserted that they were incapable of instruction, and that they were not much superior to ourang- support in its struggle against the Duke outangs; but the experience of the last three years has proved that they are intelligent effectionate, and grateful. They already speak There be lay in his father's great chamber Dalian with elegance and clearness of enun- and felt that his end was dr. wing very near ciation, and read and write with facility. Their handwriting is good, and their thoughts are expressed in their written compositions with Plearness and simplicity and with wonderful priginality. They also read Latin with comprehension and intelligence. The eldest Libo Tukuba, studies arithmetic, and adds, subtracts, and multiplies mentally. He also has a passionate love for music, and from bearing the lessons on the pinno given to others is abler to repeat them by ear. Great patience was required to teach the little savages, and Signora Scarabello, to whom the success is chiefly due, nicrits great praise. She has laught them on the Freebel system, by means of objects which they could see and touch, and also by appealing to their appetites wit sweetmeats or fruits.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS OF THE POLAR LANDS.

The impression of one's first approach to an Arcticland lingers long in the memory. For weeks you may have been tossing about in mid-ocean; gradually the ship gets into quieter waters; the fogs, which for days past have obscured any yow beyond a few gards from the ship, clear away; the land huze is seen; the sun comes out of the leaden snowy sky; a bit of ice grates against the ship's side; and your attention is called to a white object tossing in the sea, a mile away. It is the first iceborg; and with the voyager's mind filled with extravagant notions, derived from the pictures be line seen in books, he is apt to be disappointed with his first iceberg. The great mountains of ice grow on one after a time. You approach still nearer; iceborgs become disagreeably numerous; numerous seals raise their heads above the cold water; a white whale, or a little heid of narwhale, puff around the ship; or it is just possible that, for off, the thin line of vapour projected from its nostrile proclaims that a whale is "blowing." If you are near a cod-bank, the great fin back whale of little value either for its blubber or whilebone, though of much greater size than the " right." whalebone whale-will be sure to be seen in great numbers. The land is now close at the ice-foot-fbe remnant of that great field which, during the past winter, had stretche I many miles from the shores-still hangs to the cliff, and will remain so until the warmth of the air, or the laving of the acid renction, and contains, in addition to the waves, bented above the freezing point by the long summer sunshine-a continuous day of comes accustomed to these and still stranger concomitants of the land he is to live in for From "The Countries of the World," by Dr. Robert Brown.

He had rallied his las strength that he might give Parliament hi of Lancaster. For this purpose he had moved to the royal palace of Westminster He bade them open the door of his room that all his followers might come in. Whe all those who had served him were gathered round his bed, he said to them, "Sirs, par don me that I cannot give you, who have se loyally served me, a reward fitting your ser vices; but God and His saiuts will render to you.". They all wept briterly; for ever one of them loved him tenderly. Then h gave them all rich gifts, and prayed the King that he would ratify these gifts t-and calling his little son to his bedaide, he bade him never enange or take away the gifts which h given to his servants. They turning again to the earls and barous, and all his other fel lowers who stood around his bedside, he said to them in a clear voice: "I commend to you my son, who is yet but young and small, and pray that as you have served me, so from you heart you would serve him." EDUCATION. The first truth by which the Queen and the Prince ought to be thoroughly penetrated is, that their position is a more difficult one than that of any other parents in the kingdom; because the Royal children ought not only to be brought up to be moral characters, but also fitted to discharge successfully the arduous duties which may eventually devolve upon them as future Sovereigns. Hence the magnitude of the parental responsibility of the Sovereigns to their children; for upon the conscientions discharge of this responsibility will depend hereafter the peace of mind and happiness of themselves and their family, and-III as the great upholder of the domestic virtues. History already takes the liberty of judging of his morits as a Sovereign, but it remains finanimous in its proise of his private virtues. But George III. either did not properly understand his duties as a parent or be neglected them. Three of his sons, George IV., the Duke of York, and ceived great part of their education on the lorges may have been too strong for them salien than is necessary, and induces the keep men from doing wrong.
